Pilot Claims Released Player Started Fight During Flight

HIT HIM OVER HEAD

Used Fire Extinguisher After Tussle Threatened To Cause Crash

By The Associated Press

TORONTO Sept 17—A melodramatic fight in an airplane high over the Long Branch race track in the dark early today resulted in the death of Leo Koenecke 31 outfielder of the Brooklyn National League baseball team

William Joseph Muqueeney who was piloting the plane and Irwin Davis his assistant who said they killed Koenecke in self preservation were charged with manslaughter

Davis and Koenecke were locked in a desperate battle the fliers stated Then the plane rocking partly out of control as the pilot fought to keep one hand on the controls Muqueeney struck Koenecke several times on the head with a fire extinguisher

Charters Plane In Detroit

Koenecke sent home from St Louis by the Dodger had chartered the plane at Detroit for a trip to Buffalo

Muqueeney gave this graphic story to the police

Accompanied by a friend Irwin Davis we left the Detroit airport about 10 p m for Buffalo During the middle of the trip Koenecke became restless and started grabbing at the controls

As he was seated in the front seat I advised him to get into the back seat and he did Davis came to the front seat Everything went O K for a short time Then he grabbed me by the neck which interfered with my flying I asked Davis to get into the rear seat and try to quiet him After about 10 minutes he started fighting with Davis and there was quite a commotion

Davis yelled for help I looked back and saw that Koenecke was fighting Davis He then tried to get at me Davis hit Koenecke with a fire extinguisher The latter knocked it out of his hand He again made for me

Misses Koenecke Hits Aid

'Holding the controls in one hand I picked up the extinguisher and hit at Koenecke but hit Davis I then hit Koenecke two or three times with the extinguisher but he kept on fighting so I hit him again

I circled two or three times and landed in a field Some people including the police were soon on the field and after some little time we were taken to the police office

A coroners jury to inquire into the death was summoned by Coroner Warren Snyder F I Murphy K C conferred with Muqueeney and Davis at the Islington jail where they are held being booked

G. O. P. OPPOSES DAVEY'S PLANS

Legislator May Ask That Building Program Be Submitted to Referendum

GOVERNOR FIGHTS MOVE

Maps Setup Making Corporations Liable for Bonds Involved in Financing

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Sept. 17—Opposition to Gov Davey's $20,000,000 state building program developed in Republican circles today on the eve of a special legislative session to consider ways of financing it

Legislators will convene Wednesday for a three fold purpose all concern financing Besides the building program the problems of aiding counties to supply relief needs and to provide $7,000,000 for old age pensions during the remainder of the year will be dealt with

With Republicans controlling the house opposition from their forces took on a serious significance for the administration proposal

Ponders Vote Demand

Rep Ralph G Marshall Republican of Muskingum said he was considering offering a resolution in the legislature calling on the governor to submit the financing plan to a referendum

The governor has opposed putting the proposal to a vote He outlined a corporation setup to issue $6,000,000 in bonds in order to circumvent a constitutional debt limitation The corporation and not the state would be liable for the bonds

Clarence J Brown Blanch stepublisher and Davey's Republican opponent last year paved the way for Republican opposition Monday with a critical blast against the plan

If the legislature adopts the building financing plan it would not become effective for 90 days unless enacted as an emergency measure Marshall pointed out a referendum in November if approved by the voters would permit speedier action than ordinary passage

Issue Rejected 4 Years Ago

Four years ago the voters defeated a $6,000,000 welfare building program bond issue

Gov Davey is awaiting Federal Administrator Hopkins approval of the program He said he expected to hear from Hopkins shortly He would like to get a combined initial federal grant and state appropriation of $2,000,000 to start work immediately

If the house sought to adopt the building plan as an emergency measure it would require 25 Republicans to join with the 65 Democrats Republicans have 67 house members Senate Democrats would only need the vote of three G O P members for a two-thirds majority

Republicans likewise would have to enlist Democratic support for any proposal to submit the issue to the voters

ADMITS THEFT BEFORE TRIAL

Indiana Man Changes Plea to Guilty After Jury Is Seated

SENTENCED TO PRISON

Companion Awaits Hearing on Charge of Stealing Weighing Machine

Lewis Wolfe of Logansport Ind pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny in common pleas court this morning after a jury to hear his trial scheduled for today had been selected

Judge Hector S Youn, immediately sentenced him to a term of one to seven years in Ohio penitentiary

Wolfe is one of two men charged with stealing a weighing machine from the entrance of the Gallaher Drug Co store at 141 W el Center street June 21 and taking 3 3/4 pennies from it The other accused man is Max Huston 27 also of Logansport Ind whose trial date has not yet been set

According to police who arrested the men when they discovered the pennies in an automobile they were driving, the pair took the weighing machine broke it open and threw it into a ditch along the Parks ton-Delaware road south of the Marion Country club keeping the pennies

The weighing machine brought to the courtroom this morning is valued at $60

Accordin[illegible] to police records Wolfe's trip to the penitentiary scheduled for Thursday will be his fourth visit to a penal institution The records police said show he was sentenced to a term of one to 10 years for entering a building at Pendleton Ind in 1930 and again to a term of one year for larceny at Gulfport Miss In 1934 He also was given a 12 months sentence for another offense at Parchman Miss police said

Wolfe was represented by J C A Arter Prosecuting Attorney Paul D Michel was prepared to prosecute the case In addition to the weight machine and pennies the prosecutor had a piece of metal that apparently had been broken from the weight machine said by police to have been found on the floor of the automobile of the accused men The prosecutor also said a screwdriver found in the automobile corresponded with a dent in the weight machine and apparently had been used by the men to force open the money compartment

2 BOYS ADMIT FIRING BARN NEAR DELAWARE

Refusal To Allow Pigeon Hunting Prompted Move, Prosecutor Told

Special to The Star

DELAWARE O, Sept 17—Because Lloyd Higgins Delaware county farmer wouldn't let two brothers 17 and 12 years of age hunt pigeons in his barn they set fire to Higgins barn Aug 31 Prosecuting Attorney Lawrence Kellar quoted the boys Monday as confessing

The boys against whom Kellar said charges will be filed in juvenile court are Roy Clayton 17 and Samuel Clayton 12 two of nine children in the family of Mr and Mrs Virgil Clayton who live in Licking county near the Delaware county line

The prosecutor who with William R Corwin assistant state fire marshal questioned the boys quoted Roy Clayton also as having admitted setting fire to a house belonging to Jess Van Fossen in Licking county two weeks before he and his brother started the Higgins barn fire Van Fossen he was quoted as saying had ordered him off his farm

The Higgins fire destroyed two barns a granary and a milk house at a loss estimated a several thousand dollars The boys were quoted as saying they went to the Higgins farm on the evening of Aug 31 and asked permission to hunt pigeons in the barn Higgins recalling the incident said he refused them permission and also refused their request that he take them to Sunbury He said he left the farm shortly afterward and went to Sunbury and there learned that his barn was on fire

Prosecutor Kellar said the boys admitted waiting until Higgins had passed them on the road to Sunbury and then returned to the barn and started fires both inside the building and in a straw pile Questioning of the boys suspected by Higgins was begun Monday

The younger brother was quoted as saying he helped start the fire only because his brother had

HOOVER CLAIMS HUMAN RIGHTS BEGIN TO WANE

Says Federal Activities Same Sort of "First Sappings" as Seen in Other Lands

DECLARES ATTACK STEADY

Denounces 'Abdication of Powers by Congress and Repudiation of Debts'

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO Calif Sept 17 Former President Herbert Hoover asserted in a Constitution day address here today that some activities of the federal government are of the same sort of first sappings of human rights that have taken place in other lands

Liberty never dies from direct attack Mr Hoover declared at the conclusion of 20 years experience in serving his country at home and abroad dealing with the backwash of war revolution

No one will dare rise tomorrow and say he is opposed to the bill of rights he said Liberty dies from the encroachment and disregard of its safeguards its destruction can be no less potent from ignorance or desire to find short cuts to jump over some immediate pressure

Cites Executives Powers

In our country dilution of its responsibilities and powers by congress to the executive repudiation by the government of its obligations the centralization of authority into the federal government at the expense of local government the building up of huge bureaucracies the erosion of the limitation of citizens are the same sort of first sappings of safeguards of human rights that have taken place in other lands Here is the cause of anxiety and concern to the thinking citizens of the United States

Vital principles of American liberty are set forth in the Constitution of the United States Mr Hoover told an exposition audience in his speech which he had defined as non partisan and non political

Liberty Basic Idea

'Our Constitution is not alone the working plan of a government of states under representative government There is embodied in it also the vital principles of the American system of liberty That system is based upon certain inalienable freedoms and protections which not even the government may infringe and which we call the bill of rights

It does not require a lawyer to interpret those provisions They are as clear as the 10 commandments

Men throughout the world he declared are in despair suffer-

REMOLDING OF ARTIFICIAL EAR OR NOSE EXPLAINED

Plastic Surgeon Outlines Results of Five Years of Research Before Scientists Assembled in Cincinnati

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI Sept 17—Dr Oscar V Batson of Philadelphia appeared before the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology today to describe results of five years of research in plastic surgery in which he has produced he says an artificial ear or nose that can be remodeled and applied by the person to wear it

Credited by colleagues with being one of only two or three men in his field Dr Batson professor of anatomy of the graduate school of medicine University of Pennsylvania in an interview contrasted plastic surgery of the World war period with that of today

Two of his early products worn by Cincinnatians—a man and a woman—still are in use he declared although they have been repoured and refitted many times

Asserting that often a patient who either through accident or disease has lost one or the other facial member cannot stand an operation

[illegible] alternative step was the making of a wax cast of the face—minus of course the missing member

This cast is sent to him and aided sometimes by photographs of the subject—as in the case of a nose which later has been distigured or destroyed—he constructs a permanent mold

Into this a composition of flesh tinted gelatin and glycerin is poured and" said Dr Batson a true-to-life ear or nose is the result

The member is applied by the patient with the aid of spirit gum

It lasts from 3 to 10 days according to Dr Batson and when another is needed the patient simply melts the old nose or ear in the original mold and reapplies it

Exacting work? Yes the Philadelphian agreed, 'you can't have a bunch of noses hanging along the wall and pass them out as you would a hat.'

Elijah Emptage Observes Day on Farm He Cleared 70 Years Ago.

On the same farm where he hewed out a log cabin 70 years ago to make a home for his bride Elijah Emptage one of Marion county's oldest Civil war veterans today is celebrating his ninety fifth birthday anniversary at his home in the northwestern corner of the county

A family dinner is marking the passing of the ninety fifth milestone of his life which has been marked with unique experiences

One of the few men living who endured life in southern prison camps during the Civil war Mr Emptage also is one of the last of the old time pioneers who struck into virgin forests cut the logs for their own homes and gradually cleared enough land for farming purposes

Shortly after his return from the Civil war he married Sophia Finley a native of New Jersey who came to near Marseilles with her parents when she was five years of age Together they went to the unbroken woods that now makes up Mr Emptage's farm built their home shot wild turkeys from the back door plow reared a family of children and prospered

Log House Still Stands

Forty seven years ago Mr Emptage built the spacious farm house he and his two daughters and maid occupy It is about 100 yards from the old log house which now stands in the middle of a field encircled by steel The farm has been Mr Emptage's home for more than 70 years

Mrs Emptage died 10 years ago shortly after she and her husband had celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary

At about the age of 20 Mr Emptage enlisted with the Fifteenth Ohio regiment and was sent to the One Hundred Twenty Third regiment He was among a group of soldiers personally greeted by President Lincoln as they moved through Washington He took part in a campaign in the Shenandoah valley that resulted, during a surprise raid by General Robert E Lee in the capture of nearly 500 men of the One Hundred Twenty-

6 GUNMEN ROB SANDUSKY FIRM

Tie Up Eight Employes in Pairs and Use Explosives To Get $1,000 to $2,000

STATE PATROL INFORMED

Blast Knocks Door Off Safe and Is Heard in Large Surrounding Area.

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY O Sept 17—Six men armed with two machine guns and sawed off shotguns tied up eight employes of the Wolbeck Packing Co early today cracked the office safe and escaped with between $1,000 and $2,000

Sheriff Victor J Moore of Erie county immediately informed the state highway patrol and asked police in cities of northern Ohio to be on the lookout for the gunmen

The night shift of eight men was on duty at the packing plant when the six safe crackers drove up in a sedan They herded the employes into one room of the plant split them into pairs and then tied them back to back

Leaving a guard over the employes the robbers then went to the office and set a large charge of explosives in the door of the safe The explosion was heard in a large area surrounding the plant which is just across the Sandusky city line south of the city

Sheriff Moore said the safe door was blown from its hinges by the explosion

Two of the men managed to free themselves shortly after the departure of the gang and called the sheriff's office William Waldeck owner of the company, said he was unable to make a complete check of the contents of the safe immediately but the amount was between $1,000 and $2,000

Waldeck said there was an unusually large amount of currency on hand because today is one of the days on which farmers bring their livestock to the plant for sale

The Waldeck concern is one of the larger packing firms in this area and ships meat to many northern Ohio cities

Conrad Kleizer night watchman at the plant said the men worked swiftly and efficiently He was unable to say in which direction the gunmen left

Rome Spokesman Says If Some Points in Plan Are Acceptable Negotiations Can Resume.

(Copyright 1935 by The Associated Press)

GENEVA Sept 17 — The Italian delegation to the League of Nations informed The Associated Press tonight that if the league could agree on the Italo Ethiopian situation is reasonable it will be made the basis for negotiations by Italy

This was considered of the utmost importance in view of Saturday's Italian communique which declared Italy would not accept a compromise

An Italian spokesman said the words on compromise used in the Rome communique did not eliminate the possibilities of negotiations

He explained that if there were some points in a plan for the negotiation of Ethiopia accepted agreed upon by the league's special committee which were found acceptable to Italy, there were no reasons negotiations should not be undertaken

Suggests Laval and Eden

Such negotiations he suggested might be entered into with certain members of the league council such as Premier Laval of France and Anthony Eden the British minister for League of Nations affairs

The announcement given to The Associated Press by Dr Italiano

By The Associated Press

ADDIS ABABA Sept 17 Emperor Haile Selassie told the Associated Press today that if the League of Nations recommends a trusteeship protectorate of Ethiopia he will reject the suggestion outright

[illegible] was understood to have been made also to various delegates to the League of Nations

The possibility of a conference among Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, Laval, and Eden elsewhere than in Geneva was not excluded by the assembly's statement

These suggestions were immediately received in informed quarters as constituting a basis for optimism

Reach An Agreement

The Italo Ethiopian committee of the League of Nations was reported to have reached an agreement upon the fundamentals of a plan for the collective assistance of Ethiopia

Premier Laval one of the members of the committee told The Associated Press following a meeting of the body

It cannot be said we have finished our report'

Immediately afterward the committee went into a private session to discuss financial and economic questions concerned with the Italo Ethiopian situation

Another committee meeting will be held tomorrow at which time it was said a definite report will be drafted

An authority stated the committee is convinced this report will be rejected by Italy

Italy and Britain Marshal Fleets

By The Associated Press

Both Italy and Great Britain marshaled their naval strength today as the hour drew near for the League of Nations council to make its decision in the Italo Ethiopian dilemma

Mussolini recalled from the reserves Italy's two largest battleships the Duilio and the Doria both carrying thirteen 12 inch guns

The premier also sent orders to squadron commanders in the Mediterranean Adriatic and Red Sea to shape the navy into compact fighting units

Skeleton Fleet at Home

A strangely small British home fleet of only 19 ships steamed up off Portland for manuevers ordinarily held off Scotland but doubt was expressed as to just where the battles would take place or how many vessels would be involved About 50,000 troops awaited orders in South England

Alessandro Lessona under secretary of state for Italian colonies, stated that Italy 'does not want a crusade against colored people but she wants security for her colonies

Lessona compared the United States' action in Mexico and Cuba to the Italian plan and declared 'Italy does not back down Even if some people are obstinate in failing to understand her, she proceeds straight ahead on her path with a serene conscience"

Five Reach Gibraltar

While curiosity was aroused as to the whereabouts of the mysteriously absent vessels of the British home fleet, five of the nation's mightiest cruisers, which left Portland under secret orders after dramatically summoning their crews aboard, arrived at Gibraltar

The ships completing a swift voyage of 1,200 miles were the Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. Also vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this gentle food in place of patent medicines.

Columbus O. E. S. Members Attend Marion Meeting

THE opening of the fall and winter season was a gala occasion for about 200 members of Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star, and their guests last night in the Masonic temple.

Members of Rickly Chapter No. 668, of Columbus, were honor guests and conferred the degree work on a class of candidates with Mrs. Lorena Caldwell, worthy matron and Herbert Caldwell, worthy patron, presiding. As a part of the initiatory work Mrs. Adabell Maynard, deputy grand matron of District No. 17, sang two solos.

Invitations were accepted by the chapter to attend a meeting of Naomi chapter at Galion, Oct. 8 when the organization will celebrate its fortieth anniversary, and a regular meeting of Ashley chapter Sept. 25. A special program will be presented at the Ashley meeting.

The Marion chapter will pay a return visit to the Columbus lodge on Oct. 1. The local officers will confer the degree work. Members planning to attend are asked to notify Mrs. Katharine Smith, worthy matron, or Mrs. Florence Pickerel, secretary. Mrs. Arthur A. Ward announced Sept. 25 as the date for the first of a series of fall dances to be given in the temple dining room. Other dance dates are Oct. 15 and Oct. 30.

Among the guests present were Fred L. Carhart, worthy grand patron, P. R. Devere of Columbus, grand sentinel, Mrs. Lida Alexander of Columbus, grand representative of Georgia, Mrs. Loretta Carhart, grand representative of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Adabel Maynard, deputy grand matron of district No. 17, Mrs. Marianne Bower, worthy matron of Light 'o Day chapter of Columbus, John Keller, worthy patron of R. T. King chapter of Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Caldwell, worthy patron and worthy matron of the guest chapter.

Refreshments were served during a social hour in the temple diningroom, in charge of Mrs. Margaret Hall, social chairman, assisted by Mrs. Rose Helwig. Flowers decorated the chapter room and also were used throughout the diningroom.

A meeting Oct. 7 will be followed by a social hour and refreshments served by the organ fund committee of which Mrs. Mary Williamson is chairman. The Eastern Star patrol will present an exhibition drill following the business session.

ELKS' WOMEN'S CLUB TO MEET TOMORROW

A program of activities will be discussed at a meeting of the Elks Women's club Wednesday afternoon when the members meet in the Elks clubrooms. The meeting, which is one of the important ones of the year's schedule, will include the election of a president to succeed Mrs. H. C. Lautensiager, who has resigned.

MORNING STAR
— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Barnes considers whether it is better to divorce her husband, matron-ize him or reform him. Her only help at home is her father, Jeffrey Ely, who has been a martyr to his wife's bee keen sense of duty all his life, and encourages Emily to continue her efforts that Edwin comes home and tells Emily all about the meeting of the merchants' association.

CHAPTER 29
Quarrel

EMILY paused before the bookcase, seeking solace there. "I wonder what's become of 'In the Beginning?'" She was speaking as much to herself as to Edwin. There was no way, of course, for him to know what had become of a volume of Norman Douglas.

His paper rustled and was silent. At last Edwin said: "I burned it."

She turned and stared at him. "You—what?"

"I burned it," he repeated doggedly.

Emily's eyes were almost black. "What precipitated that—triumph of righteousness?"

He explained, almost sullenly. "I heard you telling someone how much you enjoyed it, and, when I went to Birmingham last week I took it along to read. It was the vilest book I ever tried to read."

Her eyes never left his face. "Hon! sot!," she murmured, and stopped abruptly.

"What did you say?"

"Nothing. I was just quoting a proverb that attributes evil to him who evil thinks."

"There was no question about the evil there," he said hotly. "A book which dealt, too graphically, with scenes a man hardly discusses with his own wife. The fact that the scenes transpired between gods and goddesses didn't lessen their impropriety."

"No." Her voice was soft, thoughtful. "In the midst of all that beauty your medieval mind would notice the dirt."

He dropped the newspaper, stung into real bitterness. His motive in essaying the book had been praiseworthy; he wanted, in his inarticulate way, to acquaint himself with the things that interested Emily, and this was his reward.

"You can't resist slurring me, can you? And yet you can enjoy a book so suggestive that I was ashamed—"

"To have it in your house!" She snatched the words from his lips and flung them at him. "Shall we draw a line down the middle of it, Edwin, and let one-half of it be yours and the other half mine? Or would you prefer it all?"

"Emily!"

Suddenly the room and Edwin and Norman Douglas grew unreal and far away. There was a glorious sense of lightness and release, and then—nothing.

When she opened her eyes she was on the couch and Edwin was kneeling beside her, his white, terrified face very close to hers.

"Emily, sweetheart, what is it? Are you all right?"

The world came back, suffocating, crushing her. She closed her eyes to shut it out.

"Yes, I'm all right. I haven't been to a doctor yet," she whispered wearily, "but I'm pretty sure I'm—going to have that baby you wanted."

"Oh, my darling!" He laid his burning cheek against hers for an instant and then very gently lifted her in his arms and carried her to her room. He had forgotten the existence of a man named Norman Douglas; he was once more awed and adoring and very humble.

• • •

Frances Felton had found a new outlet for her energies and she was transformed. Already she was making Lisis.

"Of course we won't try to set everything at once, but William can drive us to Birmingham in the morning and we can make a beginning."

Emily moved restlessly in her deck chair. The garden was bathed in sunlight and the tulips and iris were vying with each other for supremacy. The result was intoxicating.

"Not yet, mother. There's so much time for all that later. This isn't the sort of thing that slips up on you."

Frances looked a trifle upset by her levity. "But you won't want to go later."

Emily's eyes had an unruly glint. "Why not? Everybody on earth got here by the same route."

"Emily!"

"I'm sorry." But she didn't sound particularly sorry. "It's just that I'd rather stay out in the sunshine for a while and work my garden."

"But you have no business working your garden! Dr. Proctor should forbid it."

"Oh, not that actively, darling. But I can potter around and superintend Andrew. And then during the last few months I'll sit and hem napkins as much as you like."

Her mother stared. "Sometimes, Emily, it's hard to believe that you are my daughter."

"Isn't it!" Emily agreed cheerfully. "I don't understand why you haven't cast me off before this."

She thought with amusement of how easy it was to defy someone when you no longer had anything to lose. She derived a positive delight from shocking Frances now.

Frances decided upon an acceptance of the inevitable and changed the subject. "Your father is like a child over it."

Emily smiled. "Bless him! If it's a boy I'm going to name it for him." To herself she thought, "He knows it's a good thing for me, too. That I won't throw my cap over the windmill now."

"I've always thought a child should be named for its father," Frances objected.

"It's so confusing, darling. You end up by calling him Junior, which isn't a name at all, or Buddy, or Sonny, or Toodles, and he never lives it down."

She chuckled suddenly. "Suppose Edwin had been called Toodles! It might have altered his whole nature. Do you know, I think one of the most significant things about Edwin is that he's never had a nickname."

Frances rose.

• • •

"I must be going," she said coldly. "If you need my help at any time I shall be glad to do what I can."

Emily was smitten with contrition. "Of course I'll need your help. I haven't an idea how to begin. I only want a breathing space first, to adjust myself; after that you won't have a minute to call your own."

She kissed her mother, and felt from the relaxing of her body that she was mollified.

When Frances had gone she sank once more into the deck chair and closed her eyes.

At least there had been no scenes since the one about the book. In all the category of Edwin's fetishes, Motherhood held first place, and his attitude since that night had been compounded of reverence and awe.

She heard his step upon the flagstones; dear heaven, was it lunch time already? And then she felt his kiss upon her forehead. He nearly always kissed her upon the forehead now. She opened her eyes and managed a smile.

"Greetings. Aren't you a little early?"

Edwin sat in the other deck chair and looked at her. He spent a good deal of time just looking at her. "I may be, a little. But I thought you might want something. Are you all right?"

"Quite. I can still move sfound, you know."

She smiled teasingly at him, wondering if she could maintain her balance for the remaining months on the rather dizzy pedestal upon which he had enthroned her.

"I know you can, but I'm afraid you may overtax your strength."

He was very patient with her levity, and irreverence now; as made her think of an indulgent parent humoring a refractory child that had been very ill.

"I won't, darling," she assured him. "I'm really lazy, anyhow, and I snatch at any pretext for idleness."

"This isn't a pretext," he said firmly.

There was no use in arguing it, of course. She rose. "I expect lunch is ready."

On the way to the house he kept his arm tightly about her waist.

Charlotte's acknowledgement of her news was characteristic and comforting. Charlotte's letters had a way of putting everything in its proper perspective.

Even Judith broke a silence of many months to rejoice with her. There had been a brief announcement three months before of the arrival of David Carroll Morton, but Judith had been too occupied for letters.

"I'm glad about this," (she wrote), "for more reasons than one. I've guessed from the things you haven't said that Edwin is by no means perfect, and after the baby comes he won't particularly matter."

She smiled wistfully at Judith's enthusiasm, and wondered if the day would ever come when she could sun herself once more in the radiance of Judith's personality.

Edwin objects, tomorrow, to one of Emily's friends.

It will be difficult to make much progress against hostility, treachery and subtlety, and yet there is also a sign of a fresh opportunity which may eventuate in decided gain, with advantageous change, if these difficulties be surmounted.

Those whose birthday it is may as well be prepared for a year of anxiety, doubts, deceit and frustration, all calling for a wise and determined resistance.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary Helps Madge Prepare Luncheon for the Boys.

KATHERINE, turning from the basin in which she was heating vegetable puree, gave me a quizzical smile as I came back from my relief expedition to my wailing baby daughter.

"Judging from the cessation of cries, I should say that your efforts were highly successful," she said.

"For the moment only," I told her. "I should advise you to make haste on the second relay, or the concert will begin again."

"I'm on my way," she said, deftly filling a small bowl from the basin, and putting a slice of bread and butter on a plate. "Shall I send Mary back to you? I won't need her now."

"Please!" I answered. "Everybody is ravenous, and I want to get the lunch ready as soon as possible."

"I think you ought to be able to satisfy famine victims," she countered. "Katie evidently has interpreted your order for sandwiches, fruit and cakes most liberally. I couldn't resist a peek at that one Katie had packed. Fried chicken, no less! Remember to save a wing for me."

Mary Helps Out

"I shall hide immediately the finest piece of breast in the collection as well as the wing."

"O-o-la-la," she caroled as I put out paper plates upon the light folding serving table which Williams had brought from one of the cars. Mary was at my side as I finished, inquiring eagerly: "What shall I do first?"

"Help me fill these plates," I said, putting waxed paper, already cut to fit, upon each one. "You'll find the things in these opened boxes. There are two kinds of filled sandwiches, and plain bread and butter ones.

"Put a small tomato on each plate, and a wooden spoon. I'll put the pieces of chicken on myself."

"Chicken!" Mary squealed the word as enthusiastically as Junior might have done. "My word! How come?"

"I am as much in the dark as you are," I said. "It is one of Katie's surprises. I found the box just now. It was filled with fried chicken. She must have had Jim kill the chickens last night, and heaven alone knows at what unearthly hour she got up to fry them. At any rate, they are here, each piece carefully—I almost said 'tenderly'—wraped in waxed paper.

"I'm dividing them now into white and dark meat, and as I know the tastes of everybody except Williams, I'll put them on the plates and you can label the plates. I have pencil and paper in that little box."

Preparations Praised

"If you were put down unexpectedly in the middle of the Sahara, I'll bet you'd have everything at hand to make camp and check up the sand fleas—if they have 'em over there," Mary said with a saucy moue. "But I'll hurry with the plates. I'd advise you to give Williams a goodly supply of both white and dark meat. He looks to me like a valient trencherman."

"As soon as you finish writing the names for the plates," I said, smiling, "I wish you would set your luncheon. Then you can relieve Anat Katherine in caring for Faith while she eats."

"I think you're just saying that out of the kindness of your heart, because you're afraid I shall fall at your feet in a starvation coma if you don't. But consider yourself hugged and kissed just the same."

She scribbled the names hastily, handed the slips to me, and picking up a plate, held it out for the chicken. When she had received generous portions, she looked at the plate critically.

"When you were broadcasting that list," she said, "it sounded like an awful lot. But these sandwiches are very thin and tiny—and a good thing, too—not too much starches. But I think we'll all be able to clear our plates. Where are the paper cups? I want to feel that hot soup trickling down my throat."

Colds.

AS THE cold weather approaches we encounter more of our friends with "running noses," sneezing, coughing and wheezing. Weather conditions have begun to change and we must take care to avoid head colds, nose and throat irritations and other respiratory infections. One of the most common of the ailments frequently associated with sudden changes in temperature is "pharyngitis," a form of sore throat.

Some complain of sore throat after the slightest exposure. Often this tendency can be attributed to low body resistance and chronic fatigue. Not infrequently repeated attacks of sore throat can be traced to diseased and enlarged tonsils. Inadequate protection against cold and dampness, undernourishment, overwork, poor ventilation and constipation are other underlying factors in the production of pharyngitis.

It may start with what appears to be a simple head cold or acute nasal catarrh. The pharynx or upper part of the throat soon becomes involved and the victim complains of soreness in the throat. Not infrequently the glands in the neck become enlarged and painful, forming "kernels."

Other symptoms are headache, fever and loss of appetite. In many instances the discomfort lasts for only a short time. But it may persist for several days and be prolonged because of complications. The second night is usually the most painful time.

The sufferer from simple pharyngitis will shorten his ailment by remaining in bed from the very onset of the infection. The throat should be gargled with an antiseptic solution. A simple mouth wash consists of plain lukewarm water to which a pinch of salt has been added. Copious amounts of water should be drunk, and all irritating and spicy foods avoided.

Very often the infection extends to the larynx or vocal cords. This is especially annoying because it results in hoarseness. The tissues in this region become swollen and normal sound production is impossible.

When this condition occurs in children it is called croup. The child may awaken during the night and complain of difficulty in breathing. There is an inability to obtain sufficient air which causes the skin to appear blue from a lack of oxygen reaching the blood. Fortunately these attacks are usually of short duration and the symptoms quickly subside.

Special croup kettlers are often used in the treatment of laryngitis in children. In adults the application of an ice bag about the throat, or cold compresses are beneficial. Unlike pharyngitis, gargles are of little value because the fluid does not reach the larynx. Cold air and irritating dust or smoke should be avoided. To shut down on talking is helpful.

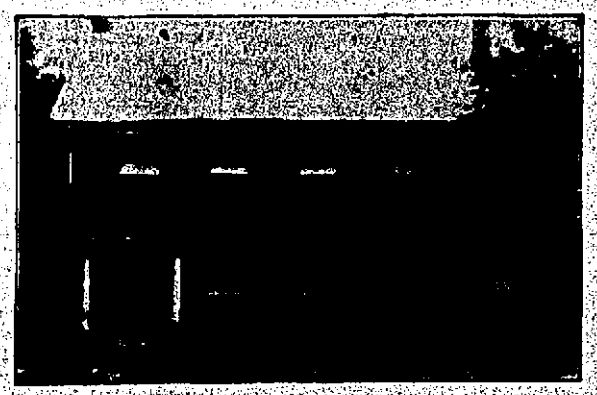
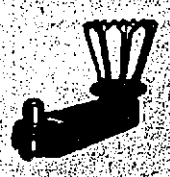
Marion Family Finds Gas Heat Economical



Shown here is the lovely home of A. W. Newby. Gas conveniently keeps inside temperatures constant throughout the 8 heating months of the year at an average cost of $18.66 per month.

You Too Can Enjoy Modern Heating In Your Home



Janitrol, the automatic gas-fired unit, fits into your present furnace to furnish your home with clean heat of even temperature. Economical to operate. Requires no attention. For a nominal charge may be purchased on easy terms and paid for like rent.

What are the expenses incidental to the fuel which heats your home — extra cleaning bills, the expense of furnace tending and removing ashes, medical attention for winter ailments resulting from up-and-down temperatures? These costs add up to several dollars a week for the average family—much more than enough to pay the small additional fuel cost for clean, convenient gas heat. Let one of our heating engineers estimate the cost of heating your home with gas. No obligation. Just call —

The Russian Way.

Russia, with Maxim Litvinov to speak for it, has found the League of Nations a useful sounding board for its international recommendations. It used Geneva for that purpose in explaining its position with regard to Italy.

"If all peace efforts of the league council fail," M. Litvinov declared, "and the Italian-Ethiopian conflict comes before the assembly, the Soviet delegation will pass its judgment with impartiality and courage that will not be shaken by intimidation, whether it be by abuses, by attacks in the press or by any other methods.

"For the Soviet government there is no question of siding with one or other party to the conflict, or of defending anyone's interests.

"The Soviet government is opposed to the system of colonies, to spheres of influence and of imperialism.

"For the Soviet government there is only one question: Of defending the covenant as an instrument of peace."

Never did a disciple of Marxism seize an opportunity for preaching more adeptly than M. Litvinov seized that one. Russia, greatest military power in the modern world, has no reason to mince words, he boasted, because its conscience is clear and its intentions are above reproach. It has only one motive for condemning Italy and that is its interest in peace. Communism, which emphasizes nationalism, is not affected by the jealousies and complications of foreign trade and colonization.

M. Litvinov repeated what Russia has had him say before—that if the League of Nations were to define what constitutes an aggressor nation, transform the world disarmament conference into a permanent peace conference and advocate disarmament of all nations there would be no more war. It seems probable M. Litvinov has more fun than is the usual lot of statesman when he explains his government's position. Russia, being young, has so little to be ashamed of.

Film Debut.

District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn, who probably is conversant with most of the theories about criminals and their motives, should be willing to agree with the frequent contention that the motive of some crimes is exhibitionism. He witnessed a surprising demonstration of it recently.

Six youths, charged with first degree murder in connection with a holdup, were in his office. He asked them if they wanted to say anything for the newsreel cameras. Much to his surprise, they were not only willing, but eager to talk. In the next few minutes, they had blurted a satisfactory confession of their crime and its details.

They seemed to regard the whole thing as a golden opportunity. They vied with each other for swagger, apparently not realizing or caring that they were saying enough to send them to the electric chair. District Attorney Geoghan, accustomed to worrying confessions from prisoners, quickly took advantage of their exhibitionism, encouraging them to make statements which will prove highly important when their cases are tried.

There have been occasions when audiences have been offended by similar scenes in newsreels. It seemed improper to play up to the exhibitionist impulse in criminals. But with the unexpected success of the Brooklyn film debut of six young criminals, the newsreel may have found, perhaps, a new use.

After a Century.

For a century Democrats have argued at least once every four years about the two-thirds rule in their national convention. With the next convention just around the snowdrifts, they are starting again. It is reported the Roosevelt administration will exert its strength to have the rule abandoned.

President Roosevelt is personally opposed to the rule. In 1932, his opposition was interpreted as a confession of weakness. In 1935, however, it is probable he will be renominated on the first ballot. Consequently, the President is in a good position to alter a practice his party has followed since 1832, when Andrew Jackson devised it to thwart John C. Calhoun's bid for the vice presidential nomination. In 1835, the rule was applied to both presidential and vice presidential nominations.

Opponents of the rule claim it is essentially undemocratic. That is, unfortunately, their only strong argument. Practically, the rule insures strong support for the presidential candidate by preventing the Democratic south from forcing a candidate on the eastern and western sections of the party. It seems important that only two Democratic candidates for the presidential nomination have failed to obtain two-thirds of the convention's votes after having obtained a majority.

Nevertheless, the prospect for abandonment of the rule is brighter than usual. In the 1932 convention, after the fight on the rule had been abandoned, the rules committee proposed to allow delegates to vote on nominating by a mere majority after six ballots should have been taken. James A. Farley repudiated the proposal, but because his candidate received more than two-thirds of the votes on the fourth ballot nothing came of it. The rules committee also proposed that the rule be abandoned at the 1936 convention. Apparently, the thing Andrew Jackson started away back in 1832 is at last in grave danger of being abandoned.

Brace Up, Mr. Wallace.

The potato control act, it should be remembered, was not desired by the Roosevelt administration. The act represents the effort of certain congressmen to protect constituents from the effects of other agricultural legislation which the Roosevelt administration did desire.

Therefore, it is possible the potato control act may be the means of putting a halt to the regimentation of agriculture. The act is a startling extension of one of the new deal's policies. It is having the effect, even before it is enforced, of stimulating criticism of the new deal for a concept of control which includes regulation of so universal an agricultural commodity as potatoes.

It is interesting to speculate on what thoughts Secretary of Agriculture Wallace must have had when he learned of his duty as potato administrator. Section 203 of the potato control act reads:

"The secretary of agriculture shall investigate probable production and market conditions for each allotment year and shall determine from available statistics of the department of agriculture and proclaim, at least 30 days prior to the beginning of each allotment year, the quantity of potatoes which, if produced during such year and sold during or after such year, will, in his opinion, tend to establish and maintain such balance between the production, sale and consumption of potatoes and the marketing conditions thereof as will, in his opinion, tend to establish prices to potato producers at a level that would give potatoes a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the purchasing price of potatoes in the period Aug., 1919-July,1929, without reducing the total net income of potato producers from potatoes below the largest probable net income of potato producers from potatoes produced during such allotment year, and without tending to cause to producers of potatoes disadvantages in competition by reason of an excessive shift in consumption from potatoes to some other commodity or commodities."

Brace up, Mr. Wallace. Maybe it isn't as hard as it looks.

Money Makes Trouble.

It was necessary again last week to patch up the quarrel between Secretary of Interior Ickes and Relief Administrator Hopkins over the best and quickest way to spend the $4,000,000,000 work relief appropriation. Every day, officials in charge of making allotments are obliged to explain why they turned down one project and accepted another project. Each explanation leaves some individual or community dissatisfied.

Most observers seem willing to guess, furthermore, that practical politicians are going to be caught sooner or later with their hands in the wrong pockets. The Roosevelt administration boasts proudly it is impervious to corruption, but that would be a miracle, indeed. Where there is money, there, also, will be found persons trying to steal it.

The $4,000,000,000 work relief fund is full of possibilities, in other words, and many of them are unpleasant. At one time, jubilant Democrats and discouraged Republicans agreed that no party with four billion dollars to spend could be defeated. More recently, they are saying that money is the root of all evil and that four billion dollars is anything but an unmixed blessing.

President Roosevelt by this time next year probably will be trying to explain what was and wasn't done with the work relief appropriation. Unfortunately, he chose to make certain predictions concerning its use which are not materializing—which cannot possibly materialize at the current rate of development. The Hopkins-Ickes quarrels have shown the depth of disagreement over the administration's uncertain management of the fund. There will be many things for the President to explain.

Money makes trouble. The work relief fund, characterized originally as a political asset of almost unlimited value, is being characterized with increasing frequency these latter days as a liability.

Neighborhood History

EARLY CAREY SCHOOL

As early as 1863 residents of Carey in Wyandot county erected a school building for furthering of the education of their youth. Some who were acquainted with the building are quoted as describing it as a "marvel of awkwardness and inconvenience in point of interior arrangement."

A row of seats was arranged next to the wall entirely around the room and in front of this was a high desk, also extending entirely around the room and boarded or ceiled in front. The center formed a sort of an arena or bull pit in which the learning and the flogging were inflicted, the two processes in many instances being "equally painful."

Among the first teachers were Juliette Searles, A. W. Brinkerhoff, Miss Labarse, Mr. Thompson, J. N. Free, "the immortal," James and Mary Foster, Albert Myers and Mr. Brundidge.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—No one has more fun out of the business of writing or is more versatile than Homer Croy. Ripley recently broadcast in his B. I. O. N.'s that Croy was the first student in the first journalism school but never took up journalism permanently.

He was also first to go around the world taking motion pictures. As a sideline he had himself kodaked alongside the Sphinx using Whoosis toothpaste or on the banks of the Ganges ballyhooing some other advertising product. With these profits he knocked about Paris for two years.

The book that brought him greatest literary fame—"West of the Water Tower" was written anonymously. He was the author of Will Rogers' first talking picture. Among other balls he has kept in the air simultaneously are syndicate writing, lecturing, magazineing and radio scripts and talks.

Croy was born on a farm near Marysville, Mo. and is as bald as his talented fellow Missourian, Courtney Ryley Cooper. His personal letters and their final greetings are sought by collectors. He is the most hilarious correspondent since Mark Twain.

Circulation managers say no tragedy in New York's memory so stunned the metropolis as the extras announcing the deaths of Rogers and Post. Nearest to it was the Lindbergh kidnaping. Sales in department stores and smaller shops came to a full stop for almost an hour. The news eclipsed the luncheon period and proprietors report that, while people ordered, scarcely anyone ate and in instances food was left untouched. Along streets men and women were brushing away tears. Even shock-proof Wall Street seemed dazed.

Fifth avenue has a queer, hatless, well dressed gaffer who streaks like an arrow through the sidewalk flow every late afternoon. He generally turns south from 57th and zooms a bee line down the middle of the pavement. He scarcely varies an inch either way and those in his path are pushed aside, helter skelter. So far he has gotten away with it. The attitude has been tolerant amusement. But some day he'll lock horns with an Old Man Grump.

Then the window washer on a 42d street skyscraper who gives a free show every week or so at a high window. He drums up a crowd by waving. Then, standing on the sill, unhooks his safety belt and goes. Max Baer fashion, into a teetering gutta percha legged attempt at falling and catching himself in the nick of time. Some day, too, he will be fired. Or miss.

The old Hippodrome's renaissance gives a fresh gasp to seedy Sixth avenue. The Hip—like London's Old Vic—has a sentimental tug for every New Yorker and visitor more than 30. For a long time it was shuttered, then came a succession of efforts—small time vaudeville, grind pictures and low priced grand opera. It was ready for the wrecker's axe when Billy Rose thought up his combination circus, musical comedy and museum idea. Rose has a way of clicking with what looks to be fantastic fakiroo—his dollar dinner with a complete show, for example. Anyway the Hip again trumpets with elephants, roars with wild beasts and clatters with horses. And has Dick Maney as the modern Tody Hamilton. Even the sidewalk ticket speculator has returned along the hawkers of red balloons, banners and other gimcracks. Unless the latest venture scores, the building is to come down to make way for another of those two storied, nearly all glass buildings that have supplanted, at least temporarily, the 60 and 80 floored wonders of the boom.

A first visit to the Hip was to interview Silvers, the clown, whose pantomime baseball game was perhaps the superlative achievement of any mime. Anna Marble, now Mrs. Channing Pollock, was the press agent, and we found Silvers in the droop of a dolor, this warm summer night on a fire escape scaling a wisp of air. I had read of the sadness of clowns and thought his dejection a part of the Pagliacci pose. But it must have been pretty real, for a few months later, the man who made the world laugh so uproariously, died by his own hand.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Sept. 17, 1925.

Marion eighth grade school pupils were credited with an average of 83 words out of 100 in a report of a statewide spelling contest. The state average was only 73.

A. R. James, 63, of near Meeker, claimed to be the best corn cutter of his age in Marion county and issued a challenge to men of 63 or older to compete with him. His challenge came after he had cut 50 shocks in one day. He said he expected to make it 60 for a day's work before the season ended.

Merle Morrison of Silver street went to Delaware to enroll in the sophomore class of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bull entertained with a family dinner at their home on South High street in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bull, who were recently married.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, Sept. 17, 1915.

Stefansson, famous explorer, was reported alive after having been missing in the Arctic for months. The Canadian government received a message from him, the first word from him and his party since April 7, 1914.

German newspapers, acting under authority from their government, published a report that action satisfactory to the United States would be taken to settle differences arising from sinking of the steamships Arabic and Hesperian.

The proposed United States loan of a billion dollars to the Allies, which had caused a storm of protests, was cut to half a billion and it was thought this would result in completion of negotiations. It was reported that J. P. Morgan & Co. and associated banking interests would be able to provide the half billion without difficulty.

Secretary C. B. Huntress of the Chamber of Commerce announced that subscriptions for bringing a rolling mill and two allied industries to Marion had reached $30,000. A total of $65,000 was needed.

Freight business on the Erie railroad was reported increasing to the extent that several extra trains had been added.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—Circumstances surrounding the Roosevelt-Hull demand for full adherence to world peace treaties make the experts suspect that it was a sort of "We, too" utterance. It fell like an echo as well as a summary of our long-distance moves for peaceful solution of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

When Secretary Hull saw the press at 10:30 in the morning, he expressed no official comment on Samuel Honre's warning that Great Britain might fight, if need be, to make Mussolini behave. Then the noon editions brought word that Premier Laval of France had backed the British stand in a stirring speech at Geneva. It was not until the breakup of the Italo-French alliance seemed imminent that Mr. Hull called in the correspondents for an emergency press conference and distributed his formal statement.

Mr. Hull showed that he had profited from the experience of Predecessor Henry L. Stimson in the Manchurian affair. The United States stepped out as an orphan guardian of world peace that time and neared the brink of war with Japan before we realized that Britain & Co. were not following us. So now Uncle Sam serves as a private in the parliamentary army of the nations.

Grave

The Hoare-Laval-Hull crackdown has had a behind-the-scenes effect at Washington which may prove as strategic as events at Geneva. Trade and diplomatic and military experts are divulging secrets—off-the-record—which may eventually influence American and world opinion.

These indicate that Il Duce needs a foreign war to avert serious domestic trouble—and possibly internal conflicts. He has invoked emergency measures which shock our observers, and only the fact that he has done them piecemeal conceals that significance. He has reduced corporate dividends to a maximum of 6 per cent, expropriated all surpluses and required Italian subjects to cash foreign securities for payment in lire. The inflationary trend is partly offset by increased industrial activity now, but if production sags for lack of a war Italy will be in a dire state economically.

The choice of Ethiopia was unfortunate, say the experts. Their information reveals that it is not as rich in resources as Mussolini claims, and that climatic and topographical difficulties make exploitation both impossible and unprofitable. Il Duce would never get his bait back.

Shunted

Although George Hanson's suicide on the high seas seemed to be entirely unrelated to great international moves, it casts new light on events affecting Washington, Moscow and Tokio. It seems to bear out suggestions that the abrupt note to Russia about communistic activities was dictated by President Roosevelt rather than Secretary Hull.

Hanson was one of the ablest men in the foreign service. Stationed for many years in the Orient, he knew the habitues of dives and diplomats of all nations. His confidential reports proved invaluable when Japan was pushing her troops into Manchurian fastnesses a few years ago. As promotion he was transferred to Addis Ababa when Italy and Ethiopia clashed. But enroute he was shunted to Salonika and he dies a broken-hearted man.

What happened was this: While speaking at an executive session of the American Russian Chamber of Commerce in New York he criticized certain policies of the Soviet. He simply repeated the charges which Mr. Roosevelt made in his note to Moscow a few weeks ago. But for this offense he was deprived of his promotion and sent to the diplomatic hole of Salonika. Thus Mr. Hull disciplined him for setting forth Mr. Roosevelt's views. It is understood that certain banking interests once hostile but now friendly to the Soviet forwarded his off-the-record remarks to the State Department.

Precedent

New Deal textile investigators are patting themselves on the back over their success in checking imports of cheap competing goods from Japan. So far it is the only achievement of the sub-cabinet committee named by the President to look into the industry's problems.

It was impossible to negotiate a formal treaty with Tokio because oriental production costs are so low that diplomatic dickering was out of the question. Other nations would have kicked or taken advantage of the terms accorded to the Japanese. But after a few private talks Nippon graciously agreed to exercise self-restraint. Under a "gentlemen's agreement" the Japanese government imposes a quota on the amount of goods its manufacturers may ship to the United States.

Japan's acquiescence is more significant than appears on the surface. For years we permitted immigration of Japanese under the same kind of a "gentleman's agreement." Then, in 1924, we barred them bp statue, thereby affronting the sensitive orientals. Question: Is Japan simply turning the other cheek or will she eventually cite her conduct now as an example for us to follow with respect to repeal of our immigration laws?

Notes

NRA's staff still numbers 3,000 but 400 are using up leave accumulated during the hectic days of the Blue Eagle...When their leave is up they will go off the pay roll....State Department correspondents are wagering on the date when Mussolini will declare or start war against the Conquering Son of Judah..Just two have bet their two bits on "no war"....Only 100 Democratic representatives have ponied up their annual $25 to finance the congressional committee...The worst delinquents are committee chairmen and they will get a letter soon from Buck Hayden, the genial permanent secretariat.

(Copyright, 1935, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Here are inside angles on two leading Republican presidential possibilities as reported by well-posted New York sources.

As recently as three months ago Colonel Frank Knox told former Senator James E. Watson that he was not a candidate. Knox knows he cannot get the Illinois delegation because he is a former Bull Mooser and because of the terrific fight he made on former Governor Len Small of Illinois when the latter was trying to stage a comeback. He has also been told he would have trouble corralling the delegation from his native state of New Hampshire because of the bitter scrap he once had with ex-Senator Gallinger.

New York rates it a pertinent question whether any candidate can get far without the support of either his native or his adopted state.

Potential

Months ago certain influential New Yorkers of the financial crowd had their eye on Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa. They wanted to meet him and asked a former U. S. Senator to arrange a dinner so they could look him over at close range.

Two days before the scheduled dinner Dickinson voted for the soldiers' bonus. His prospective hosts called the former senator and told him to cancel everything—they weren't interested in anyone who would go for the bonus at this time. A little later the intermediary ran across Dickinson and reproached him for taking a stand on the bonus which would ruin his chances for the presidency.

Dickinson replied that he was only a potential candidate for president but a real candidate for senator from Iowa—and the soldier votes count out there. Political observers now believe—with payment of the bonus assured early next it will be disregarded in considering him as a candidate and will help him if he is nominated.

Unclubby

It was true—as so many smart speculators figured to their own undoing—that negotiations were almost completed last week for New York City to take over the private transit lines. Brokers were given apparently unimpeachable tips that this was the case—and they and their favored customers went into action accordingly.

Then along came ex-braintruster A. A. Berle Jr. and gummed the parade for fair. First he blocked the agreement itself because he thought it was far too liberal to the present owners of the subways and elevated lines. On top of that he raised a terrific noise about inside manipulation of transit stocks—which immediately went into a tailspin that left the easy money seekers out on a limb.

Berle was named to the Stock Exchange advisory council last year at the suggestion of members who thought it would be swell to convert a real live braintruster to the idea that the exchange is really on the up-and-up and can manage its own affairs to perfection. Mr. Berle got on fine with the boys and they thought he was sold—especially on the point that market rigging is no longer possible. They think his behavior about this transit matter is downright unclubby after all the "education" they gave him.

Practiced

The transit stocks are especially tempting meat to shrewd professional operators. The city is forever talking about unification. Every time it does so rumors get around—which makes it simpler for a smart "rigger" to induce the public to bite. It's against the law to spread such rumors—but try to prove who started them.

The recent increase in volume of trading has lured a number of old-time speculative wizards and skilled manipulators back into the market. They aren't so afraid of getting caught when there's so much going on. Transit securities aren't the only ones whose action of late indicates revival of the come-on racket designed to trap unwary suckers.

Chrysler and Radio Corporation—for instance—have registered fluctuations which strongly imply a practiced hand at the helm. It remains to be seen whether the string pullers can be smoked out.

Nightmares

Wall Street was much intrigued with the news that the Van Sweringens plan to bid for control of their own former empire when their forfeited collateral is auctioned off by J. P. Morgan & Co. acting on behalf of a group of banks. Insiders say this can only mean that they have found a new financial backer—as otherwise they would have nothing to bid with but their own voices. The wonder is—to New York—that anyone would be willing to stake them again. Certainly none of the banks now involved intend to do so. Odium of Atlas Corporation is the one man likely to step into the situation.

If they do bid they will probably get what they're after. The only competitor in sight is Lenor F. Loree of Delaware & Hudson—and he's not certain. It would be a masterpiece of irony if the Van Sweringens—perfect examples of the Old Deal philosophy in action—should make a comeback at this stage.

One thing sure—J. P. Morgan & Co. will not bid in the defaulted collateral itself. The firm has had quite enough of Van Sweringen-Allegheny nightmares and will be only too happy to get rid of them permanently.

Sidelights

Undersecretary of the Treasury Jeff Collidge won't be chairman of the new Federal Reserve Board.... New York sighs but hopes he will at least be named a long-term member....The British are going in heavily for Diesel locomotives.... Both for their own and South American use.... One thing marine disasters have accomplished....A seaman has to earn his lifeboat ticket now.

Final "Grand Slam" of 1935 Softball on This We

FOUR GAMES LISTED IN NEXT THREE DAYS FOR MARION TEAMS

Encounters Between Honorary Squads Scheduled Tomorrow Night.

What promises to be the final "grand slam" of softball in Marion this season is scheduled to get under way tonight at Lincoln park and to continue through the twilight period on Thursday night.

Featuring the three-day program will be the second annual encounter between the first and second teams of the All-City selections. All-Intermediate teams will meet in a short game before the big event for the first time.

The abbreviated game tomorrow night is scheduled to start at 6 o'clock and the select talent of Marion city teams will take the field approximately one hour later. The annual game is sponsored by the Junior Board of the Y. M. C. A. and profits from the game are used in promoting the winter athletic program at the Y. M. C. A.

As an opener for the week's softball activities, Lee Street will meet a picked team at Lincoln park at 5 o'clock in a benefit game for Bill Darnell, injured in softball competition this season.

The group selected to oppose Lee Street includes Nelson Klingel, Don Penry, Walt Baldauf, Billy Hero, Larry Edgington, Don McAninch, Alec Shoup, Bud Cram, Francis Robbins, Dale Schwaderer, Kenneth Gallant, Howard Jones. Walt Baldauf has been named as manager of the team and Alec Shoup as captain.

As a number of players selected for Wednesday night's All-City game will be unable to play additions to first and second teams were named this morning by Bud Cram, in charge of the event. These men, ranking third in the voting by 50 fans, will fill in where they are most needed, Cram said.

The list includes Kenneth Somerlot, Fred Vestal, Jerry Nolmeyer, Myron Gibson, Clarence Primmer and Harry Winters. Somerlot is a catcher, Vestal and Primmer are pitchers and Nolmeyer and Gibson are outfielders.

The Thursday game will be a twilight encounter instead of a night game as previously announced. The tilt to be played between the Gasco nine and Pollak Steel will start at 6 o'clock and will be a benefit for "Scoop" Midlam.

FOREST TURNS TABLES ON LAFAYETTE, 5-0

West Improves Remarkable Pitching Record; Edge in Series Gained.

Special to The Star

FOREST, Sept. 17 — Forest Merchants defeated Lafayette, 5 to 0 Sunday afternoon at Meyer field in the third and deciding game of their season's series.

Lafayette started the campaign with a win 4 to 2, but Forest turned the tables in the second start by an identical score.

Floyd West, twirling his 13th victory in 15 starts for Forest, allowed only six hits and breezed 13 batters to run his string of strikeouts for the 15 games to 204. He has allowed 66 hits this season and only 17 runs.

Hullbarger, Lafayette first sacker who slammed out four hits in four trips the last time the two teams met, went hitless, striking out twice. Holmes of Forest collected two out of three and C. Keckler got a triple and single in four trips.

Forest goes to Marion next Sunday to meet the Steam Shovel team.

Joe Woods' Blows Finish Grudge Match in Hurry

Fight Ends in Third Round; Al Britt Survives Mean Tricks To Win Wrestling Feature.

Joe Woods' devastating right uppercut and slashing left hook made short work of Jack Louis and the 10-round heavyweight fight on last night's "mixed card" at the Steam Shovel gymnasium.

A near capacity crowd saw Woods, former top-notcher in the fighting arena, floor Louis for a count of three in the first round, outbox the blond Denver, Colo., heavy, in the second canto and end the scrap with an uppercut to the jaw after one minute, 15 seconds of the third round.

Joe's brief work showed that he was in a class above the slugger from the Rockies, although he has been out of the fighting field for some time while Louis has been boxing regularly. Woods showed his ability to duck and sidestep blows as Louis charged in to slap and pound the shorter Californian.

Misses Uppercuts

In the first round Woods slashed out a right which caught Louis under the jaw and sent him into a neutral corner for a count of three. In the second round Woods opened up with some clever infighting and came out to slap the plaster off Louis' nose.

Joe missed a couple of uppercuts which might have ended the fight earlier. Louis tried to get in close to pound Woods amidship and was able to land but one light tap on Joe's face.

The boxing fray was an outgrowth of a slugging mat encounter between the two huskies last week. Louis created considerable excitement after his flooring as he came out of the trip to Slumberland fighting. Two men were forced to duck blows and wrestle, the loser to hold him in check.

Using that famous wringlock which his father, a veteran mat campaigner, had showed him, Al Britt of LaRea, Kan., won two out of three falls from the rough and tough Toughy Cleet of Tulsa, Okla. Cleet aroused the ire of fans, and finally Britt before the Kansan took two straight falls.

Britt opened the match with heavy slams of Cleet to the pad, but the latter came back with an apportment of punching, hair-pulling and gouging which gave Britt considerable punishment. A series of slams and a body press gave Cleet the first fall in 17 minutes.

Survives "Knee Action"

Twice given a chance to receive a decision from Referee Tom Temple, Britt turned down the offers, survived Cleet's "knee action" and won the match in falls of 16 and 9 minutes. He might have taken his falls sooner had Cleet kept away from his mean tactics and the ropes.

Cleet aroused fans with his unlacing of shoe strings and his ability to "get away" with mean stuff when Temple wasn't watching.

Bobby Chick, husky San Antonio, Tex., wrestler, gained only a draw out of his 20 minutes' work in the opener on Lon Chaney, Indianapolis, Ind., matman. Chick could get little wrestling out of Chaney as the Hoosier stuck to the corners and got mean when he did tangle with the newcomer.

Chick, who wrestled Martino Angolo to a draw last week in Toledo, got irked with Chaney's tactics slapped him a few times and climaxed the short match by chasing Chaney around the outside of the ring.

BOB ZUPPKE PLEASED WITH HOT WEATHER AS COAST TRIP LOOMS

Illinois Team Must Face Trojans Oct. 12; Big Ten Squads Busy.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 17—Other Big Ten football coaches may want cool, autumn weather for practice purposes, but Bob Zuppke of Illinois wants his hot—the hotter the better.

Zuppke is openly making a point for Oct. 12, the day on which his Illini meet Southern California at Los Angeles, and he wants as much California-like weather as he can get between now and then. Yesterday's 85-degree weather blended perfectly with Zuppke's plans.

After a long morning session devoted to inspecting new candidates, Zuppke sent teams of experienced players through a driving two-hour scrimmage in the afternoon. The Reds, composed largely of varsity men, outscored the Blues, two touchdowns to one. Wib Henry, who probably will succeed Jack Beynon at quarterback, and Bob Wright, accounted for the Red scores, while Gene Dykstra, veteran end, made the Blue touchdown.

Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin also ran into stiff scrimmage sessions. The Gophers, hampered by warm weather, aroused Coach Bierman's ire by their listlessness. Captain Glen Seidel, recovered from illness, made his first appearance in scrimmage.

Iowa's first string backfield started to take form in the hardest drill of the season. Coach Ossie Solem had Dick Bowlin, a sophomore, at quarterback, with Ozzie Simmons, fleet Negro, and John Hild at halfback, and Captain Dick Croyne at fullback.

Dr. C. W. Spears again experimented with Wisconsin's talent in an effort to get better blocking in the field, using George Lanphear, a heavy guard at quarterback. Spears had decreed secret practice, but a sudden wind and rainstorm ruined his plans by tipping away the canvas barrier around the field.

Northwestern put in a long session featuring a little of everything. The choicest part of the drill turned up in the punting of Steve Toth, whose boots traveled an average of 50 yards. At Michigan, Harry Kipke tried to develop speed among his huge linemen. Noble Kizer also had line trouble at Purdue, making numerous shifts in an effort to find a capable right tackle.

Bo McMillin commended the huddle of his Indiana squad, but found little else to encourage him. Chicago had its first taste of contact work, Line Coach Duke Dunne supervising a brisk blocking session. Francis Schmidt found plenty of fault with Ohio State's offense, but nevertheless started building a defense for the Buckeyes' opener against Kentucky, Oct. 5.

3 "Big Name" Teams on Buckeye League Schedules

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17—Three "Big Name" teams appear on this fall's schedule of Buckeye conference football elevens.

Illinois and Indiana of the Big Ten, and Syracuse will meet Buckeye squads. Bob Zuppke's Illini will entertain Ohio university at Champaign, Ill., Sept. 28; Bo McMillin's Hoosiers will invade Cincinnati university Oct. 19, and Ohio Wesleyan and Syracuse will tangle the same afternoon at Syracuse, N. Y.

The six conference teams will open their season the last week of September. Dayton, "baby" member of the league, will meet Cincinnati, defending champion, under the lights at the Queen City Stadium, Sept. 27. The other four open in afternoon tilts, Sept. 28, with Heidelberg vs. Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware; Concord vs. Marshall at Huntington, Eastern State Teachers of Kentucky vs. Miami at Oxford, and Ohio vs. Illinois at Champaign.

The composite Buckeye schedule for the season:

Sept. 27—Dayton at Cincinnati (N).

Sept. 28—Ohio U. at Illinois; Kentucky Eastern State Teachers at Miami; Heidelberg at Ohio Wesleyan; Concord at Marshall.

Oct. 4—Wesleyan at Dayton (N); Morris-Harvey at Marshall.

Oct. 5—Miami at Case; South Dakota State at Cincinnati (N).

Oct. 11—Marshall at Dayton (N); Ohio U. at John Carroll (N).

Oct. 12—Ohio Wesleyan at Miami; Denison at Cincinnati (N).

Oct. 18—Depaul at Dayton (N).

Oct. 19—Ohio Wesleyan at Syracuse; Ohio U. at Marshall; John Carroll at Miami; Indiana at Cincinnati.

Oct. 26—Ohio Wesleyan at Wittenberg; Marshall at Miami; Dayton at Ohio U.; Baltimore at Cincinnati (N).

Nov. 2—Cincinnati at Ohio Wesleyan; Marshall at Emery-Henry; Miami at Ohio U. Dayton open.

Nov. 9—Western Reserve at Delaware; Cincinnati at Marshall; Muskingum at Ohio U.; Canisius at Dayton; Adrian at Miami.

Nov. 16—Marshall at Delaware; Ohio U. at Cincinnati; Miami at Dayton.

Nov. 23—Ohio Wesleyan at Ohio U.; Wittenberg at Dayton.

Nov. 28—W. Va., Wesleyan at Marshall; Dayton at John Carroll; Miami at Cincinnati.

SAM LANGFORD SEES JOE LOUIS IN TRAINING

By The Associated Press

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Sept. 17.—Joe Louis' stock had taken another rise.

He pummeled his sparring partners as some wise old eyes looked on and they proclaimed him a great heavyweight.

One of the onlookers Sunday was Sam Langford, the grizzled old "Tar Baby" of better days. Sam can't see so well. One eye was permanently dimmed by a right hand punch of Fred Fulton and the other isn't so clear. But he saw enough of the panther-like bomber who keeps weaving in, to convince him that his race had produced another great one.

"He's just too much for Mr. Baer," said the broad-beamed Langford.

Philadelphia's Jack O'Brien was there too but although he praised Louis he withheld a prediction as to the outcome of the Sept. 24 battle until he had seen Baer train.

"He has everything a fighter needs," said the former light heavyweight champion of the world. "He fights in the orthodox style we old timers used, but he has improved on some of us. I can see he has been well trained by Jack Blackburne, for he weaves and tosses his punches much as Jack did, and I fought Jack."

"I would like to see Louis have a little more speed afoot but he is a hard man to hit with a solid punch for he is always moving and counters beautifully. On style I would pick Louis but I will not make a selection until I have seen Baer. You never can tell what Baer will do for he is unorthodox."

CUB PITCHING PROVES SALIENT FACTOR IN CLIMB OF LEADERS

Warneke Outlasts Three Giant Hurlers as Lead is Unaltered.

BY ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

A perusal of the records shows that the steadiness of the Cubs pitchers has been the most salient factor in the meteoric advance of Chicago in the National League.

The Cubs have used only one pitcher in each of 12 of the 12 consecutive games they have won while their rivals, the Cards and the Giants, have seen their flingers shelled into the showers on various occasions during that span.

In the past 13 games, Paul Dean has gone the distance three times for the Cards, his brother Dizzy, twice, and Phil Collins, once. Relief pitchers finished the other games.

Warneke Wins

Hubbell pitched three entire games for the Giants and Schumacher, one, but in the other nine the twirlers found the row too tough to hoe and were beckoned from the field.

The Cubs subdued the Giants, 8-3 behind the seven hit pitching of Warneke yesterday, that pitcher recording his 19th victory of the season. The win kept the Cubs two games ahead of the second-place Cards and shoved the New York team 4½ games to the rear.

Thirty thousand pennant mad fans howled with glee as the belting Cubs knocked holes in Terry's experiment of starting a rookie, Harry Gumbert, against the league leaders.

The Chicago batsmen, apparently resenting the affrontery of attempting to stop them with a Tyro, answered by knocking out eight hits for five runs before the former Baltimore hurler was called away. Two other pitchers followed and were more effective but the game had been salted away.

The Cards, arising from the dust of three straight defeats at the hands of the Giants, topped the Brooklyn Dodgers 1-0 in a mound duel between Paul Dean and Van Mungo. Dean held the Dodgers to six hits while striking out six and giving one base on balls while Van Mungo allowed five hits, fanned seven but gave four free tickets to first.

The Cards bunched three of their hits in the first inning to score their all-important tally. Frisch's single scored Moore.

Sammy Byrd wheled out a single in the 11th inning to break up a mound duel between two rookies as the Cincinnati Reds defeated Philadelphia, 3-2. Jim Biven for the Phils and Lee Grissom for the Reds were the rookies who turned in good performances.

Tigers Gain Ground

Less than 500 were on hand to see Pittsburgh beat Boston 5-3. Wally Berger hit three doubles for the edification of the smallest Pittsburgh crowd this season.

Detroit pulled out to a 9½ game lead over the Yankees by defeating the Boston Red Sox 5-3, while St. Louis was turning back the Yankees, 5-2, in New York.

Tommy Bridges was credited with his 20th victory of the season although the Sox outhit the Tigermen, Mickey Cochrane started off the fourth inning rally with a single and when the firing was over Detroit had scored all five of their runs.

The St. Louis Browns beat the Yankees with Harland Clift and Ed Coleman accounting for four runs with a pair of homers. Clift knocked in another run with a triple in the second.

The Chicago White Sox maltreated a pair of Washington pitchers as Sad Sam Jones was limiting the Senators to four bingles. The Sox won 9-1, as Luke Appling, Chicago shortstop, collected five hits, including a double, for a perfect day at bat.

Cleveland took their series opener from the Athletics 8-5 before another meager crowd of 300.

ASKS STEAM SHOVEL PLAYERS TO MEET

All players on the Marion Steam Shovel baseball squad have been asked to report at the Lincoln park stands tonight at 5:30 o'clock, Manager Alec Shoup announced this morning.

The Steam Shovel team, with eleven straight victories to its credit, will receive its stiffest test of the year next Sunday when Forest plays here.

LETTERMEN ABOUND AT B-G, BLUFFTON

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., Sept. 17—Bowling Green state university football team opened its football practice yesterday with an invitational list of 52 candidates.

Coach Harry Ockerman, former line mentor at Ypsilanti normal, will have 14 lettermen from which to construct what is expected to be a powerful team. Eight reserves and 30 sophomores provide a wealth of material to fill holes left by the graduation of five gridders last year.

Jim Inman, of Perrysburg, a junior, most likely will be in at fullback. He is a triple-threat star. Another backfield veteran available is Eugene Riffle of Denison. Other lettermen invited to report are Jim Greetham of Fremont, Ross Albon of Holland, Cliff Conrad of Maumee, Floyd Tippen of Mt. Blanchard, Harold Ringer of Hicksville, Carl McColloch of West Mansfield, Audrey Stevenson, Darrell Lowell, Clifton Reed all of Bowling Green, Mac Pemberton of Oakwood and Ken Weber of Archbold.

Candidates who will make a bid for regular berths include Robert Ruth of Marion, Bob Young of Sandusky and Ray Carter of Fremont.

The "B-G" schedule.

Oct. 5 Capital; Oct. 12 Baldwin-Wallace; Oct. 19 at Ohio Northern; Oct. 26 at Kent State; Nov. 2 at Toledo; Nov. 9 Marietta; and Nov. 16 Hiram.

* * *

BLUFFTON—Eleven lettermen are in the squad of 30 young huskies who seek regular berths on the 1935 Bluffton college gridiron team.

The Beavers backfield this year should be strong, with Jimmie Vogelsang, the Lima ace, topping the available material. The weak line of 1934, however, must be bolstered if the Beavers are to make a good showing.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

CHICAGO—Danno O'Mahoney, 220, Ireland, defeated Joe Savoldi, 260, Three Oaks, Mich., one fall.

WILMINGTON, Del.—Dick Daviscourt, 225, San Diego, defeated Olif Olsen, 204, Minneapolis, Two falls out of three.

MONTREAL — Ed (Strangler) Lewis, 245, St. Louis, defeated Bibber McCoy, 223, Cambridge, Mass., straight falls.

THE PERFECT GUM

THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH

WELL, NAN- QUITE A TIME MY UNCLE SNORED US LAST NIGHT- JUST ONE OF THOSE OLD-FASHIONED PARTIES LIKE BIM USED TO THROW BEFORE HE LET HIMSELF GET TIED UP- HERE'S HAPPY AS A KID WITH THAT DRAGON OF A MOTHER-IN-LAW OUT OF THE WAY-
SEPT. 17
THE POOR DE STREGES- THEIR COOKIE IS JUST ABOUT COOKED- AND DO YOU KNOW WHO DID THE BASTING AND LIT THE OVEN? LITTLE ANDY GUMP THAT WAS- I TOLD BIM HOW TO HANDLE HIS AFFAIRS- HE'S GOT ME TO THANK— FOR ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN, JUST WRITE TO YOUR UNCLE ANDY-
BIM SEEMED HAPPY ENOUGH- BUT DID YOU NOTICE- MILLIE HARDLY HAD A WORD TO SAY ALL EVENING- THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG THERE-
WHAT'S WRONG WITH THAT? A WIFE WHO HAS NOTHING TO SAY ALL EVENING IS ANY IDEA OF A PERFECT MATE-
YOU LISTEN TO ME ANDY GUMP- THE ONLY THING PERFECT YOU EVER MADE OUT OF YOURSELF WAS A FOOL- JUST TAKE MY ADVICE FOR A CHANGE AND MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS- IT DOESN'T COST ANYTHING, BUT IT PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS-

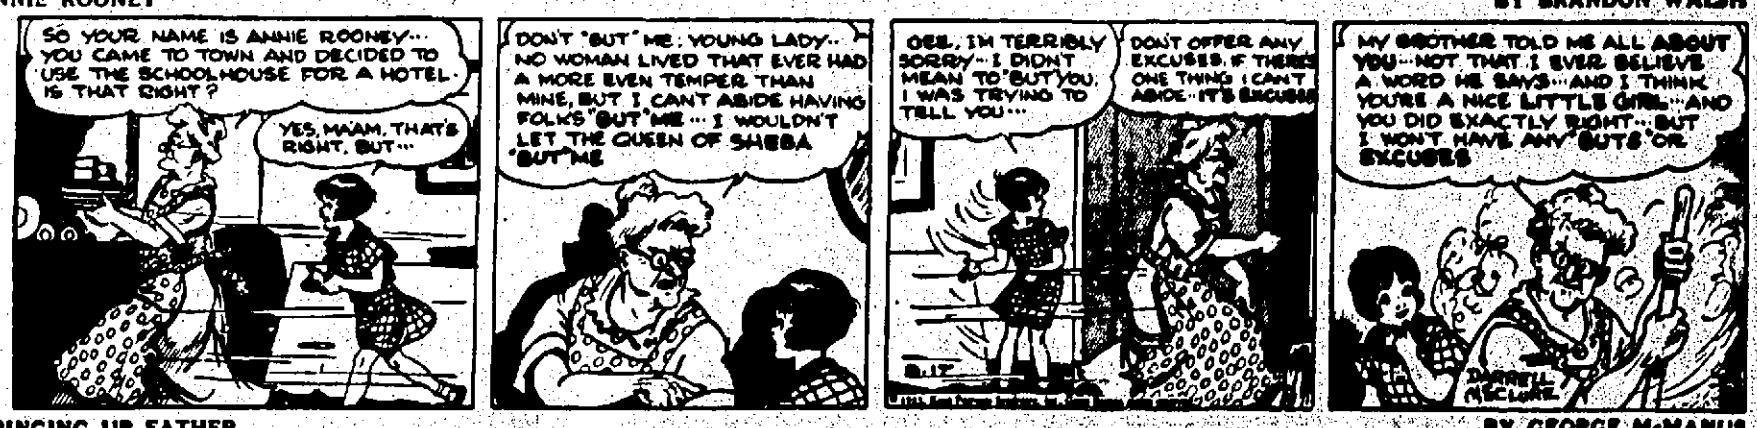
ANNIE ROONEY — BY BRANDON WALSH



SO YOUR NAME IS ANNIE ROONEY... YOU CAME TO TOWN AND DECIDED TO USE THE SCHOOLHOUSE FOR A HOTEL- IS THAT RIGHT?
YES, MA'AM, THAT'S RIGHT, BUT...
DON'T "BUT" ME, YOUNG LADY... NO WOMAN LIVED THAT EVER HAD A MORE EVEN TEMPER THAN MINE, BUT I CAN'T ABIDE HAVING FOLKS "BUT" ME... I WOULDN'T LET THE QUEEN OF SHEBA "BUT" ME
OH, I'M TERRIBLY SORRY- I DIDN'T MEAN TO "BUT" YOU, I WAS TRYING TO TELL YOU...
DON'T OFFER ANY EXCUSES, IF THERE'S ONE THING I CAN'T ABIDE- IT'S EXCUSES
MY BROTHER TOLD ME ALL ABOUT YOU- NOT THAT I EVER BELIEVE A WORD HE SAYS- AND I THINK YOU'RE A NICE LITTLE GIRL- AND YOU DID EXACTLY RIGHT- BUT I WON'T HAVE ANY 'BUTS' OR EXCUSES

VETERAN ARMY WORKERS HERE

Former Marion Corps Members Speak at Anniversary Meeting.

Major Mildred Douglass and Major Emma Schroder of Cincinnati were speakers at last night's anniversary meeting at the Salvation Army citadel on West Center street. Both were located in Marion 19 years ago and for more than a quarter of a century have been together in the work of the Salvation Army. Joining in greeting the visitors were about 20 Marion residents who knew the workers during time they made their home here.

"Salvation fro msin as provided in the death of Jesus Christ is the need of the hour," Major Douglass told her audience. "Garibaldi, the great Italian general said to his army, 'Boys, I promise you long marches, sore feet, hunger and thirst, and even starvation, but I promise you victory!' " she continued. "Christ has promised His faithful followers victory in this world and that to come," she declared.

Major Schroder sang, "Would You Believe and Jesus Receive?" during the service.

Services tonight will be in charge of Adjutant and Mrs. L. M. Pervier of Massillon. The former headed the local corps in 1919 as captain. Lieutenant and Mrs. Pervier were sent to head the newly-established post at Lorain in April, 1920, and after nine years' service were transferred to their present post. They are active in the general welfare program of their city, Adjutant Pervier supervising a men's lodge and Mrs. Pervier serving as a case worker.

Major Douglass and Major Schroder returned to Cincinnati today. The services this week are being held in observance of the opening of Adjutant and Mrs. Hunter's fifth year as head of the Marion corps.

JUNIOR HIGH BOYS NAME NEW OFFICERS

Boys of the junior year in room 22 at the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school held an organization meeting yesterday and elected officers. Arrangements were made for the first school assembly Friday morning, with Rev. James O. Dodd of the Central Christian church as speaker. Following an established custom, all school assemblies during the year will be open to the parents and friends of pupils.

Officers and committees were chosen as follows:

Rex Frazier, president; Donald Quigley, vice president; Russell Arthur, secretary-treasurer; Ray Moody, James Leedom, in charge of attendance; Curtis Wilson, Douglas Parker, in charge of banking; Donald Quigley, Raymond Littell, lockers and hall duty; Harold Strafford, chairman, Billy Burgner, Russell Arthur, program.

MARION HOBBY CLUB ARRANGES DINNER

Members of the Marion Hobby club will have a stag dinner meeting Wednesday night at 6:30 at the Y. M. C. A. After dinner there will be two talks.

Elmer Bondley will tell of his recent trip to Springfield, Ill., and Robert Bell will talk on his trip to Zoar, O., established early in the nineteenth century, by a group of German immigrants who for many years lived as a cooperative community.

WORLD SERIES DATE IS SET FOR OCT. 2

Championship Play To Open on Home Field of American League Winner.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 17—The 1935 World's Series will open in either Detroit or New York on Wednesday, Oct. 2, it was decided today at a meeting presided over by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball.

It was decided that the series opener would be played in the city of the American league pennant winner. Detroit now holds a commanding lead over the second place New York Yankees.

Although it was the turn of the National league to have the opening game, the National league officials waived this privilege. It was explained that in case St. Louis wins the National league pennant it would be impossible to accommodate the World's Series crowds on that date, as a big convention will be in the city.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY MRS. VANASBECK

Officers of the Past Pocahontas' association were installed by Mrs. Minnie VanAsbeck at a meeting last night with Mrs. Ida Uncapher of North Prospect street. Mrs. Leona Bishop was the assisting hostess.

SHEEP THEFTS BRING 2 UNION CO. ARRESTS

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 17—Two men are being held in Union county jail pending investigations by county authorities into the alleged theft of 38 sheep from the farm of Luther Eirich on the Peoria road recently, and the theft of 15 head of sheep from another farmer.

The men, Burl Rhine, 30, of Bear Swamp, and Gilbert Wynne, 40, of the Collins road, were first brought before Prosecutor Clifton Caryl on Saturday afternoon for questioning and were later released. On Sunday afternoon, Sheriff William Rausch and Deputy Sheriff Robert Ackerman picked up the two men again on orders of the prosecutor.

SEEKS TO SETTLE COSHOCTON STRIKE

Regional Board Member Hopes To Iron Out Troubles Today.

By The Associated Press

COSHOCTON, O., Sept. 17—Ralph A. Lind, member of the regional board for administering the Wagner act, tried his hand at settling the strike at the Novelty Advertising Co. here today.

Lind hoped to get company officials and striking employes on common ground in a conference with them. The company has agreed not to resume operations pending a decision on the dispute by the national labor relations board. Lind is secretary of the regional national labor relations board in Cleveland.

Picketing continued today, but the strikers agreed to allow office workers to go through the lines to their desks. The pickets also promised not to harm any employes.

Col. Gilson Light and Col. W. C. Christie, observers at the scene for the Ohio national guard, remained here pending the outcome of Lind's conference.

TWO GALION HOMES LOOTED BY BURGLARS

Minister's Residence One of Two Places Entered During Absence of Families.

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 17—Two Galion homes broken into some time Saturday evening or Sunday morning were reported to local police Monday.

The home of Rev. and Mrs. L. F. Mittler was ransacked. A window on the back porch had been removed and a lock on the back door was broken off. Rev. Mittler, a retired Lutheran pastor, and his wife are visiting in Dayton. For this reason police were unable to determine what had been stolen.

The residence of Dr. C. S. Kirk, next door to the Mittler home, was also entered while the Kirk family was away. Dr. Kirk, who hobby is hunting, discovered a high powered rifle and a repeating shot gun missing. Mrs. Kirk discovered the burglary at the Mittler home before it was known that her own home had been looted.

CANDIDATE STUDIES OTHER LIQUOR LAWS

CITY BRIEFS

Appendix Removed — Marjorie Bindley, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burdette E. Bindley of 636 East Center street, underwent an emergency operation for removal of her appendix last night at the City hospital. Her condition was reported to be fair this morning.

Undergoes Operation — Mrs. Homer Houseworth of 300 Forest street underwent a minor operation yesterday afternoon at the City hospital.

Driver Fined $30—Dallas Plotner, 29, of 208 Pine avenue, was fined $30 and costs in municipal court yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an automobile with improper license plates. Plotner was arrested over the week-end.

Three Fined $10—Three men were fined $10 and costs each in municipal court late yesterday when they pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication, filed as a result of a quarrel Saturday night that resulted in one landing in the City hospital for treatment of cuts. The men are Lester Dawson of 562 Henry street, Galen Dawson, 23, of 722 Neil avenue, and Ernest Markley of 249 Uncapher avenue.

Returns to Home—William Flowers of North Grand avenue, who underwent an operation for removal of a cataract several weeks ago at the office of a Marion specialist, has returned home. He is reported to be recovering.

Window Curtain Burns—A window curtain in the offices of Dr. E. W. Imbody in the Palace theater building was destroyed by fire yesterday when it blew against a gas flame jet. Firemen from Central and West Side companies answered the call at 4:30 p. m. Damage is estimated at $1.

Roof Fire—A roof fire that started from the point where a stove pipe went through the roof caused slight damage today at the residence of Samuel McKnight at 596 Bartram avenue. Firemen from the Mark Street and West Side stations answered the call.

ASSAULT CHARGE IS FILED BY WIFE

Adam Eiseman, 40, of 510 Olney avenue, arrested last night on a warrant charging assault and battery, entered a plea of not guilty before Judge W. R. Martin in municipal court today.

His hearing was set for 9 a. m. Friday and he was released on his own recognizance. The charge against Eiseman was filed by his wife, Mrs. Mabel Eiselman, whom police authorities quoted as saying was a result of his treatment of his step-daughter.

WYANDOT FAIR STARTS TODAY

New Lighting Equipment To Inaugurate Night Performances at Exposition.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 17—Horse racing, a better than ordinary group of exhibits and inauguration of night performances as result of the installation of lighting equipment, mark the Wyandot county fair opening here today.

Secretary Matteson, in charge of the exhibition, says that more attention has been given this year to the type of entertainment fair patrons will receive.

New and up to the minute types of programs have been scheduled with major attractions listed for Wednesday and Thursday nights.

School children in all grades of the local institutions will be dismissed from classes Thursday and Friday in order to give them an opportunity to see what the county has in the way of agricultural exhibits and at the same time offer them a period of entertainment. Members of 4-H clubs will have several samples of their handiwork on display.

Among other interesting items on the fair bill is the Wyandot County Conservation league display of livestock including several types of wild animals.

DEAR MOVIEGOER!

Do you remember such pictures as "The Thin Man," "Little Miss Marker," "Lady for a Day?"

GREAT—weren't they?

But . . . probably you were like thousands of other people—A FRIEND HAD TO URGE YOU TO SEE THEM. You may not have been particularly attracted by the titles . . . or the advertising.

Perhaps . . . you feel the same way about . . . "THE BISHOP MISBEHAVES"

If you do . . . please take our advice . . . as the word of a friend! . . .

"THE BISHOP MISBEHAVES" is just as new . . . just as different . . . and probably a bit MORE entertaining than any picture you've seen in ages . . . And it introduces a brand new, grand new screen character—a Bishop by day . . . detective at night . . . who knows more about solving crimes than all of Scotland Yard.

Take our word for it "THE BISHOP MISBEHAVES" is the finest laugh-a-second . . . thrill-a-minute detective story of the year!

Sincerely,

(Signed) The Management.

MEET THE BISHOP!

His sister calls him James,
Young lovers call him Friend,
Criminals call him Crazy,
Police call him Meddlesome,
You'll call him Hilarious!

FAIRLESS HEADS NEW U. S. STEEL CONCERN

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—The United States Steel Corp. has formed a new subsidiary the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., and Benjamin F. Fairless, who lately joined the corporation, will be appointed president, it was learned today.

Fairless, a former vice president of Republic Steel, will be introduced formally as the president of the new unit at a luncheon in Pittsburgh tomorrow.

The new company will unify the operations of Carnegie Steel Co. of Pittsburgh and Illinois Steel Co. of Chicago, the largest subsidiaries of the parent company. This step is in line with the general unification plan outlined by the steel corporation in a former announcement made two weeks ago.

At that time the corporation also revealed that Fairless had been appointed to supervise the sales and production of the Carnegie and Illinois units from a central office to be set up in Pittsburgh.

SET MEETING OF TEACHERS

County Association To Convene Saturday for First Session of Year.

The first meeting of the Marion County Teachers' association in the new school year will be held Saturday at Central Junior High school.

The program for the half-day session, to start at 9:30 a. m. and continue until noon, was announced today by D. T. Mills, county school superintendent.

The principal address will be delivered by Dr. John L. Clifton, former state director of education and now a member of the education department at Ohio State university. While Dr. Clifton has not yet announced his subject, Mr. Mills said he probably will talk upon a teacher's approach to school work at the start of the term.

Ensemble music throughout the program will be under the direction of William Dowler, Herman Watson, William Steinhauer and Harold Compton.

Following music and devotionals the program will open with a business session and nomination of association officers for the year. Short talks will be given by Superintendent Mills and Miss Mildred White, third grade teacher at LaRue, who was the Marion county delegate to the National Educators' association convention at Denver this year. Miss White will speak on "A Teacher's View of the West and NEA."

Following Dr. Clifton's address a round table discussion of plans for the school year will be conducted with all teachers present participating.
